KNIGHTS WERE AS DARK AS CATS

Crusading Habilitment Was Laid
Aside For the Bells and Joy
Emblems of Jesters.

DINED WELL; LAUGHED LOUD

Scores of Guests Were Royally Entertained by the Talented Members of the Knights Templar

The scene of many solemn and impressive ceremonies was the scene of festivity and revelry last night when the Knights Templar entertained in royal fashion about one hundred and fifty guests at the beautiful Masonic temple. Sombre faced knights laid aside their crusading equipage and accessories, and over knitted brows wore a liberal covering of burnt cork; song, cheers and laughter ruled the hour when the hand that clasped the sword swung to and fro the tamborine and rattle bones, instruments of the buffoon.

It was a big night and nothing marred the occasion to keep it from being the most successful and entertaining affair ever planned by the local knights. At six o'clock one hundred and seventy sat down to a sumptuous banquet, which was arranged under the supervision of the lodge Harry Lehr, Earl Payne, and that meant it was fit for the gods. The guests were the mothers, wives, daughters, sweethearts and lady friends of the knights, and as such, formed a brilliant assemblage.

Following the banquet was a reception of one hour during which time things were put in readiness for the "big show." In the main lodge room a stage had been provided that was complete and adequate in every respect, even to the theatrical electrical effects for which J. Vincent Young was responsible. When the curtain went up on the minstrel first part, so loud and long was the cheering that followed that the voices of the magnificent chorus was completely drowned out from the Niagara of applause, and it was not until the hard working and loud singing chorus had reached their third chorus that they could make themselves heard. It was, by far, the most artistic first part ever seen here, and for a thing of beauty in arrangements, had the professional shows looking like fair ground layouts. Three thousand dollars worth of costumes were used and all the principals and "chair warmers" wore a Shriner's fez in keeping with the oriental decorations and surroundings. Judge Sparks had charge of hte music and not a note was sounded that should have been "outlawed." An orchestra composed of Will Sargent, Harry Lucas, Frank Reynolds and Miss Jean Bishop ably sustained the chorus and played well their part. Dr. F. G. Hackleman was interloctor and in the role would make the veteran, Al G. Fields look to his honors. Both ends played against the middle but the doctor was always on the spot and came out with colors flying.

Many of the guests were of the opinion that professionals had been "run in" for the occasion, so well did the knights acquit themselves. All the soloists were in black face and sang coon songs. Roy Abercrombie opened the festivities with "I Didn't Ask-He Didn't Say-So I Don't Know." He was good. Dr. Carl Beher sang "When I Marry You," and made good. Ferd Retherford rendered "You're in The Right Church But in the Wrong Pew" and came home on the bit with much applause. County Clerk Vern Norris, an old member of the Jackson Township Glee Club, was there "forty ways" with his song "Mary Jane." It was fun to hear Dr. F. M. Sparks sing "I'm the Kid That Built the Pyramids" if you ever heard him before in his funeral voice. The "scream" of the evening was Rush Budd, who was billed as a prima donna or the Black Patti. He wore some hot rags dressed as a female coon shouter and sang "Aint It Awful?" That is, he was supposed to sing it—in the story book—but it was Hazel Lytle in the wings that rendered the song; Rust just made a noise like singing. Will C. McColgin was the surprise of the program. Few knew it previously, but Mac is an old minstrel man and was "at home" behind the burnt cork. He sang "I Wish I Had a Girl" and was assisted by Miss Hazel Lytle, who joined in the chorus in the rear of the house and came marching down the aisle, joining the happy minstrel on the stage. All the jokes used were home-made and local hits. They went big and afforded the comedians an opportunity to shoot broad side into many of the members. Although it was a cleverly conceived entertainment and an enjoyable evening for all who were so fortunate and lucky to be there. Dr. F. M. Sparks was chairman of the committee on reception, Earl Payne, chairman of banquet committee and Will McColgin, chairman of the entertainment committee.

POLICE ON LOOKOUT FOR HORSE THIEF

Animal Was Stolen From Dick Milburn, on Farm North of Morristown.

DESCRIPTION OF THE HORSE

Horse thieves are abroad again in the land. Dick Milburn, who lives on the old Muth farm, which is located about two miles north of Morristown, lost a fine mare some time last night. The mare was black with a white star in her forehead and a white spot on her shoulder which had been caused by a collar sore. The animal weighed about fourteen hundred pounds and was nine years old. City Marshal Price was notified to be on the lookout for the horse and thief.

SPRING NEAR AND OUTLOOK CHEERING

Farmers Believe That Wheat Came Through the Long Drought in Good Shape.

BUILDING MAY BE ACTIVE

Ground hog or no ground hog, spring is near and will be heard soon. With it comes reviving hope of a much better year coming than that which is past. One thing that is especially cheering is the fine prospect for wheat. Despite the long drought last fall, when there was not enough moisture to cause the grain to sprout, the later rains and frequent snows have put the wheat fields in fine condition.

Little by little improvement is shown in most, if not all, the factories. From what can be learned there are prospects of a busy season for building trades. Many thousands of dollars are lying in city banks that may be put in buildings of various kinds as soon as real prosperity comes again.

Skating is believed to have been invented in northern Europe in prehistoric times.

He was nineteen years of age and has been a cripple since he was ten years old, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis. ## WATSON WILL BE THE BIG FIXER

Will Have Charge of Appointments and Naming Committees to Build up Fence.

WATSON GOES TO SEE TAFT

Seeks His Help in Battling the Insurgents Who are Trying to Overthrow Speaker Cannon.

Speaker Cannon, seeing that he is being driven into a tight place by the House "insurgents," has drafted Representative Watson into service, says a dispatch from Washington today.

Speaker Cannon has asked Watson to stay here and take charge of his organization and in the momentous fight between the speaker and "insurgents," which is now on in earnest, Watson is the general in chief of the Cannon forces.

Watson was in consultation for a long time with President Taft and the aid of the President was solicited in trying to line up votes for Cannon. Mr. Taft and Cannon are now on more friendly terms than they were in the fall, when Mr. Taft suspected Cannon on laying plans to thwart a real revision of the tariff.

Whether Mr. Taft will use his office to help Cannon remains to be seen. The situation confronting Cannon is the most desperate he has yet faced. He realizes that not only are the time-honored rules of the House in danger of being overthrown, but that he himself is in danger of losing the speakership. It looks now as if the "insurgents," with the aid of the solid Democratic strength of the House, can get enough votes to upset the present rules, and if they do that the chances are they can also dethrone Speaker Cannon.

Members of the House who were elected last fall are now showing up in Washington and the feeling among them against Cannon and the rules of the House is surprising. In order to modify this feeling Mr. Watson will have carte blanche to offer committee appointments in a way that will minimize friction and help along the cause.

Watson, who is very popular among the members of the House, is the "salve spreader" for Speaker Cannon and there will be plenty of "salve" to spread in the shape of committee appointments and other features that come from the speaker under the present form of organization of the House.

A REMONSTRANCE AGAINST PETITION

Has Been Filed by Farmers in Sec-

Matter.

ARGUMENT WAS HEARD TODAY

The Second street brick paving matter was before the board of county commissioners today. About eighty-five taxpayers, consisting mostly of farmers who are vitally interested, have signed a remonstrance against the paving of the street and were represented in court by attorney A. E. Martin.

They filed a motion with the board to have all the petitioners for the brick street sign their full names to the petition. The remonstrators also filed a motion to have the description of the highway over which the paving is to be done more definite.

The petitioners, who were represented by Megee & Kiplinger took leave to amend the petition as to the description and will take the other matter as to the signing of the full name under advisement.

The commissioners adjourned and will meet again next Thursday to return judgment and hear further argument.

BIG ATTRACTION FOR RACE MEETS

Would be the Driving of the Fastest Brother and Sister in the World.

IN THE WILSON STABLES HERE

Probably Could Capture the Word's
Team Record—William Wilson a Promising Youngster.

One of the first stables that will move to Indianapolis to train after the weather settles will be that of Dick Wilson & Son, of Rushville, Ind. says the Western Horseman. More than ordinary interest centers about this stable on account of the two great pacers Hedgewood Boy, 2:02 1/4 and Lady Maud C., 2:04 1/2, being a part of it this year. But there are a number of right good prospects by the Patchen Boy, (3) 2:10 3/4, that will be educated with a view of campaigning them over the various circuits throughout the State.

Much of the success of the Wilson stable depends on the son, William Wilson, on whose shoulders falls a large proportion of the work of getting them ready. He knows just how to fit and train one, and if his driving on the Grand Circuit and other tracks last year is any indication of his ability, few, if any, of the younger generation of drivers have anything over him in "sighting" one.

In speaking of the two great pacers in the Wilson stable, it was suggested the other day among some horsemen at a recent sale that the pair to pole against the world's team record would be a great novelty in connection with race meetings. The race history of this great pair, the fact that they are full brother and sister, and that they are the fastest full brother and sister living that have ever raced to anywhere near such records would make them an exceptional attraction. Wilson & Son could undoubtedly be induced to give such exhibitions at the meetings where they were booked to race, and it would be a great drawing card for the association.

RALLY DAY FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS

NEW MEMBERS URGED TO COME

Tomorrow will be a special day at the Main Street Christian church. It will be a rally day for Foreign Missions and the services will be especially enthusiastic. The pastor, Rev. R. W. Abberley will preach in the morning on "The Word of God Grew and Multiplied" and at night on "The Triumphs of Christianity." The church supports Mr. Leslie Wolfe at Manila, Philippine Islands. Mr. Wolfe recently reports over forty baptisms of native Philipinos just outside of Manila. He has in charge a training class of eleven young men several of whom are studying for the ministry. It is a delight to know our local Rushville churches are reaching out in Christian work on the other side of the world. All the new members of the church are especially urged to be present at tomorrow's services.

INAUGURATION DAY TO BE SET ON MAY 1

That Is, If Speaker Cannon
Can Have His Way.

Washington, March 6.—Speaker Cannon of the house has declared himself in favor of changing the date of the presidential inauguration from March 4 to May 1, adding that as one representative in congress he would lend his aid in any effort to bring this about.

"I witnessed the dreadful weather conditions that prevailed in 1872, when four or five hundred people caught their deaths," he said. "I recall the Harrison inauguration with the soaking, chilling rainstorm, and the snow and icy gale that made life miserable at Cleveland's second inauguration. If the change of date is made it might as well be fixed later than April, for even an April rain would cause great discomfort and much sickness, and I should think that May 1 would provide more certainty of fair weather."

SHOT WITHOUT WARNING

Washington Policeman Deliberately
Slays His Precinct Captain.

Washington, March 6.—Captain W. H. Mathews of the Fifth police precinct in this city was shot and killed while sitting at his desk in the station house last night by Policeman Collier. Without the slightest warning Collier entered the station and went immediately into the captain's office, where he jerked from his pocket a revolver and began firing bullets into Mathews's body. Five shots were fired, two of them piercing the captain's skull. The cause for the killing is a mystery, even to the associates of Collier.

The latter, it is alleged, had been reprimanded by Captain Mathews for a breach of the rules and this at the time angered him. The police say they know of no other reason for Collier's action. Collier refused to say anything about the shooting or to give a reason for his deed.

Home Course In Modern Agriculture

XV.—Breeding Live Stock

By C. V. GREGORY,
Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THE science of breeding is very complicated, but there are some points that should be understood and followed by every farmer. No matter how well stock may be fed and cared for, if they do not have the inherited capacity to transform their feed economically into milk or beef or power they will always be "scrubs." On the other hand, poor feeding and care may make a scrub out of an animal which has the inherited ability to develop into something much better. To attain the best results breeding, feeding and intelligent care must go hand in hand.

Pure bred stock not only have the ability to make much more profitable use of the food given them, but they also add greatly to the appearance of the place. A pasture dotted with well bred, uniform calves, colts or sheep marks the owner as a progressive farmer. There is a great deal more pleasure, too, in caring for good stock than there is in vainly trying to get unprofitable animals into market condition.

The first thing to consider in starting in with pure bred stock is what breed to select. Do not make a hasty choice, for nothing will ruin your chances of success more certainly than frequent changes from one breed to another. Select your breed with care and then stick to it. All the leading breeds have good points, and the matter of selection is more a question of individual preference than anything else.

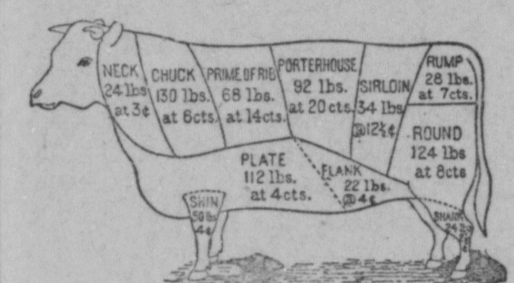

FIG. XXIX.—THE WAY A FAT BEEF ANIMAL IS CUT UP.
[Note the high prices of the back and loin.]

In beginning with pure bred stock the best plan for the average farmer to follow is to purchase a pure bred male of the desired breed and proceed to grade up his herd. There are two principles of breeding that should be kept in mind in this work. The first is the old law that "like produces like." In the main this law holds good, and, other things being equal, the offspring will resemble the parents. The second is the law of "atavism," or the tendency of the offspring to take after some remote ancestor. This is where the value of the pure bred sire comes in. His ancestors for generations have been animals of the same type as himself, and hence there is little chance of his progeny differing from this type to any serious extent. This long continued breeding along a certain line gives to the pure bred animal an ability to reproduce his type that the grade sire lacks. This ability is called prepotency.

Because of his great prepotency a pure bred bull when mated to grade cows has much more influence over the characters of his offspring than the mothers have. This is most strikingly shown when a polled bull is mated to horned cows. Nine out of every ten of the calves will usually be polled. It is the same with other characteristics—the ability to quickly turn corn into high priced beef or to use the feed for profitable milk and butter production.

Of course if the cows are pure bred also there is less chance of the calves resembling some inferior ancestor on their mother's side, and improvement will be more rapid and certain. The cost of an entire herd of pure bred is very great, however, and profits will come more surely by the grading up plan. After this has been carried on for a time, so that the farmer has some experience in breeding and caring for high class stock, a gradual start in pure bred females may be made by buying a cow and calf or a few yearling heifers. As the offspring of these increase the number of pure bred in the herd the grades can gradually be disposed of until an entire pure bred herd finally results.

In the selection of a sire to begin grading up a herd it is important that he be of the type which it is desired to reproduce in the offspring. The most important things to look for in a beef bull are constitution, form, quality and thick fleshing. Of these constitution is probably the most important, as a bull that is strong in this point will have the ability to sire a large number of rugged, healthy calves. Constitution is indicated by a deep, wide chest; large "barrel," giving plenty of room for the digestive organs; good sized nostrils and a large, clear eye. A point that must go with constitution if the best results are to be obtained is prepotency. Prepotency means the ability of a sire to reproduce his good points in his offspring. It is indicated by a heavy crest and a masculine looking head. A bull that has a fine, feminine appearing head will not be at all certain of producing good calves, even though he is a good individual himself.

Constitution and prepotency are of little account, however, unless the bull has the proper form. The back and hind quarters of a beef animal are the parts that produce the high priced meat. Great width all along the back, especially over the loin; good spring of rib, plenty of depth and short legs are points that should be looked for. Long legged bulls are usually narrow and rangy. The legs are of little value as meat, so the shorter they are the better.

Quality is shown by fineness of hair, pliability of hide and not too much coarseness of shoulder, head and bone. An animal with good quality will furnish a better grade of meat, and there will be less waste in killing.

Thickness of flesh is one of the most important points to look for. By this is meant not fat, but the natural covering of lean meat. Fat can be put on during the feeding period, but lean meat cannot. An animal that is thickly muscled at the beginning of the feeding period will furnish a carcass that will be well marbled with streaks of fat and lean, while another on the same feed will put most of his fat on in the form of tallow.

These same points are the essential ones to look for in the selection of a ram or boar. Strong constitution, wide, deep, blocky form, fine quality and thick fleshing are just as important in these animals as in the bull.

Of course it will be impossible to find an animal that is perfect in all points. If the females in your herd are badly lacking in any particular be sure to select a male that is especially strong there. On the other hand, a slight weakness on the part of the sire in a place where the females are especially strong may be overlooked. An animal that has any very serious faults, however, should not be considered for a moment.

Dairy bulls lack the fleshing and compactness that characterize beef animals. Low setness and extra width of back are not so essential. Constitution, as shown by a deep chest, wide on the bottom and a roomy barrel, is important. A clean head, smooth shoulder, fine limbs and pliable skin show the quality that is so necessary in a dairy animal. The most important point is prepotency. A strong chest, masculine head and large rudimentary teats are all indications of this. The best way to forecast a dairy bull's prepotency, however, is to look up the milk and butter producing records of his dam and granddams. A bull out of a high producing cow will almost certainly beget heifers that will be high yielders.

The most important points to look for in draft horses, which are the most profitable kind to raise on the farm, are power and endurance. Power is indicated by size, compactness and heavy muscling, especially in the hind quarters. Endurance is shown by a strong constitution and fine quality, especially of limbs.

Strict observance of these points in the selection of a sire of any kind will give you an animal that will in a few years bring about a great improvement in your herd. Pedigree should not be neglected entirely in picking out a sire. Its chief value is in showing that the animal is pure bred and that his ancestors were of the type which you wish to develop in your herd. To determine the latter point, however, requires a longer study of herd books than most farmers have time for. If you put the chief stress upon the individuality of the animal and file the pedigree away in a drawer where it can be referred to when necessary you will not go far wrong.

When you have found an animal of the desired type do not hesitate too long over the price. A hundred and fifty dollars may look like a big price to pay for a bull, but an increase of $2 a head in the value of the calf crop will pay for him in two or three years. In many cases you may be able to join with two or three of your nearest neighbors in the purchase of a bull, thus not only saving money, but also obtaining a better animal than you would be able to secure otherwise. This applies with still more force to the purchase of a stallion. In many communities it is impossible to secure the services of a first class horse of any breed. In such a case if fifteen or twenty farmers will agree upon a breed and subscribe $100 each a horse can be procured that will almost pay for himself in the increased value of his first crop of colts.

NEW CABINET IS SWORN IN TODAY

The President's Advisers Take Oath of Office.

TWO MEMBERS ARE DELATED

Messrs. Dickinson and MacVeagh, the Chicago Members of the Cabinet, Will Not Be Able to Reach Washington, For a Week or More—Atorney General Wickersham Was Sworn in Yesterday Afternoon, Thus Being the First Full-Fledged Member of the Taft Cabinet—Fred W. Carpenter Installed as Private Secretary.

Washington, March 6.—The Taft administration has taken its first stride. The new president named his cabinet yesterday, the senate confirmed his selections and its members took the oath of office this morning with the exception of George W. Wickersham, who was sworn in as attorney general late yesterday afternoon, and of Messrs. Dickinson and MacVeagh, whose personal affairs will not permit of their reaching Washington for a week or more.

An important conference took place between President Taft and the Republican members of the ways and means committee. The committee framed a tariff bill which it is understood contains a provision for the collection of an inheritance tax, one of the suggestions for raising revenue contained in the inaugural address of President Taft. Mr. Taft told the committee there would be no delay in the official proclamation calling the extra session of congress for March 15. His message to this session, he said, would recommend that it confine its work exclusively to tariff revision, that there might be no unnecessary delay in enacting this most important law.

Left Entirely to Congress.

He would, he said, not discuss in his message any details of tariff revision, leaving all such matters entirely to the judgment of congress. The members of the committee left the White House expressing the utmost good feeling and the belief that the work of the extra session would be completed before June 1.

Aside from these important accomplishments, President Taft gave himself up heartily to the demands of his friends and thousands of inaugural visitors who wished to shake his hand.

FRED W. CARPENTER.

see his smile and get a word to carry home with them. The congratulations and good wishes of Cuba were extended to President Taft from President Gomez, Vice President Zayas and a number of prominent Cuban officials and politicians in the form of a memorial presented by General De Metrio Castillo Duany, who came to the United States for that purpose.

The Columbus Glee club sang the "Star Spangled Banner" with such effectiveness as to elicit the exclamation from the president that this was the first time he had ever heard that difficult song rendered entirely to his liking. Troop A of the black horse cavalry of Cleveland, which acted as guard of honor in the inaugural parade, flanked through the big east room. An immense delegation from North Carolina followed, and the Citizens Taft club of Cincinnati received many warm words of welcome. And then, too, the public availed itself of the handshaking matinee which kept the big mansion in a state of animation throughout the first full day of the new administration.

Carpenter Takes Loeb's Chair.

The office building was not without its demands on Mr. Taft, and he found time to step over there frequently and meet the members of both houses of congress and their families.

Fred W. Carpenter took the oath of office as secretary to the president late yesterday afternoon, along with Colonel William Crooks of the White House executive force, who is a notary. Wendall W. Mischler, who has been Mr. Taft's assistant secretary and stenographer, was made one of Mr. Carpenter's assistants, taking the place made vacant by the transfer of Assistant Secretary Latta to the position of executive clerk. T. M. Hendricks of Mr. Taft's clerical force, was given a clerkship, and William Panell, who for years has been Mr. Taft's messenger in the war department, was assigned to duty on Mr. Carpenter's door.

Late in the afternoon Mr. Taft found time to go out for a brisk walk with his brother, Henry W. Taft of New York. The several elements of the Taft family now in Washington were dinner guests last night at the White House.

FATHER MURPHY LOSES HIS TEN-YEARS FIGHT

Nebraska Supreme Court Declines For Bishop Bonacum.

Lincoln, Neb., March 6.—By a decision rendered by the Nebraska supreme court, Bishop Bonacum of the Catholic diocese of Lincoln, triumphs in his ten-years fight with Father William Murphy, a priest stationed at Seward, Neb., for possession of St. Vincent's church. The supreme court sustained the findings of the district court of Seward county ousting Father Murphy from St. Vincent's parish church property, sustaining so far as a civil court has jurisdiction, the church contention that in the case of Father Murphy "the gates of Heaven are closed to him" by the decree of excommunication pronounced by the bishop.

The struggle between the bishop and priest has been the most stubborn in the church annals of Nebraska. It began when Father Murphy was pastor of the church at Tecumseh. Differences with the bishop arose and he was transferred to the Seward parish. The trouble did not cease and finally in 1901, Bishop Bonacum excommunicated him, supplanting him with a new priest. The parishioners were loyal to Father Murphy, the trustees refusing to surrender the church property to his successor. Six times the case has been in the district court, and three times remanded by the supreme court. Twice it has been before the church authorities at Rome. Father Murphy has a state-wide reputation as an orator and temperance advocate.

TO HELP LIBERIA

Uncle Sam's Strong Arm to Reach Across the Sea.

Washington, March 6.—Adequate appropriation made during the closing hours of congress will enable the state department to send to Liberia the commission composed of Robert C. Ogden, Jacob H. Hollander and Booker T. Washington, who are to make an investigation and report on conditions which in their judgment will help to strengthen the government. The English authorities have expressed their gratification over the proposed action by the United States, that government having made loans to Liberia and some of its citizens being engaged in assisting in the administration of affairs.

Fergusson and the Rabbits.

Robert Fergusson, the poet, was first matriculated at St. Andrew's university in the session of 1764-5. It was the custom at this time for each bursar to take his turn in invoking "blessing" at the meals. The college table having been surfeited with an unbroken diet of rabbits in various forms of cookery, Fergusson, on being called to say grace, repeated what are now celebrated lines:

For rabbits young and for rabbits old,
For rabbits hot and for rabbits cold,
For rabbits tender and for rabbits tough
Our thanks we render, for we've had enough!

It may be added Fergusson was not sent down, but the rabbits were "rusticated."

SENSATION IN COOPER CASE

Impeachment of Witness and Charge of Perjury.

GOV. PATTERSON INVOLVED

State Secured Evidence to Refute the Testimony of the Governor and Others as to the Reason For Colonel and Robin Cooper Being on Scene of Tragedy—Benning, the Mysterious Red-Bearded Witness, Served With a Warrant Charging Perjury in Sensational Tennessee Case.

Nashville, Tenn., March 6.—The state, in the trial of Colonel D. B. and Robin Cooper and John D. Sharp for the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, not only tore to pieces what was left of the testimony of S. J. Benning, the defense's mysterious red-bearded man, who claimed to have seen the shooting, but it challenged the right of the Coopers to be on Seventh avenue at all, the day of the killing. It did this by impeaching the testimony of the governor and others who claimed the Coopers were invited to the mansion and that while on their way there they met Carmack and a street duel followed. The bombardment of the case of the defense began when two witnesses swore that Benning the night of the tragedy said to them:

"If I had been five or ten minutes earlier I would have seen the killing." A warrant for the arrest of Benning on a charge of perjury was at once served. The specific allegation is that when he testified that he saw Senator Carmack twirling the cylinder of his revolver he swore to a lie.

Impeached Governor's Testimony.

The state also introduced witnesses attacking the reason the defense gave for being on the street Senator Carmack must traverse to get to his apartments. This reason was that Governor Patterson had sent for the colonel and Robin accompanied his father. Adjutant General Brown, Judge Bradford, Colonel Cooper and Robin Cooper testified that after Colonel Cooper left Bradford's office, just before the shooting, General Brown recalled him to talk to the governor over the telephone and that it was in obedience to the governor's command that the men were on Seventh avenue, upon which is the executive mansion, when they met Carmack.

Two witnesses swore that after Colonel Cooper left Bradford's office, he neither returned voluntarily nor was recalled to the telephone by anyone. And one, Miss Daisy Lee, Judge Bradford's stenographer, declared that instead of the governor calling the colonel, the colonel, at Judge Bradford's suggestion, called up the governor at the capitol. The latter testimony, however, was not permitted to reach the jury.

Judge Bradford Attacked.

In rebuttal, too, the state attacked Judge Bradford. Miss Lee swore that he told her he could have shot Carmack himself with as little remorse as he would have shot a rattlesnake. She also swore that Paul Davis, another defense witness, declared to her he would perjure himself to get on the jury.

The state has but two or three more witnesses to complete its case in rebuttal, and they will be heard today. The defense has not announced its purpose yet, but it is safe to say that the arguments will begin next week. No time limit will be put on either side. There are a score of lawyers in the case and the speeches doubtless will last several days.

BANQUET TO SHERMAN

Vice President to Be Guest of Honor at Washington Tonight.

Washington, March 6.—Although Vice President Sherman has hardly recovered yet from the excitement of inauguration day, he will be called upon tonight to face a large and enthusiastic gathering of his friends. The occasion will be the dinner given to Mr. Sherman by Representative J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, former president of the National League of Republican Clubs.

Among the men invited to meet the new vice president are the members of the Pennsylvania delegation in congress, the members of the Gridiron club of Washington, the members of the Five o'Clock club of Philadelphia and a number of high government officials.

Patrick's Plea For Liberty.

New York, March 6.—Albert T. Patrick, who was sentenced to death for the murder of William Marsh Rice in September, 1900, argued for nearly four hours before the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn for his liberty. Decision was reserved and two weeks allowed the relator in which to prepare a brief.

Famous Spanish Admiral Dying.

Cadiz, March 6.—Vice Admiral Pasquale Cervera, who commanded the Spanish fleet that was destroyed by the American fleet off Santiago, Cuba in 1898, is dying at Puerto Real.

MIDDLE GROUND IN THE VIVISECTION CONTROVERSY.

Extremists Giving Way to Program of Reasonable Regulation in Place of Attempts to Prohibit the Practice.

In connection with the widespread discussion of the vivisection problem the fact is pointed out that both here and abroad extreme views have culminated not in absolute prohibition, but in reasonable regulation of the practice. For many years England has had a law regulating vivisection, which was brought about by agitation that originally would have been satisfied by nothing less than prohibitive measures.

In Pennsylvania and Massachusetts there have existed for a long time societies whose object was to secure legislation against vivisection. In both states the leaders of the anti-vivisection movement have now apparently become convinced that regulation rather than prohibition is the practical solution of the problem of how to protect animals, while at the same time securing to science ample liberty to carry out useful and humane investigations.

In New York the Anti-vivisection society has announced that it will oppose the Davis-Lee bill (proposed by the Society For the Prevention of Abuse in Animal Experimentation), which would throw around the practice of vivisection such safeguards as are necessary to prevent useless and unnecessarily cruel work without interfering with investigations aimed to extend useful medical knowledge.

The Davis-Lee bill, however, has received a large measure of support from the press, the general public and a considerable number of physicians, some 700 of whom have signed a petition asking for the enactment of the bill, although the State Medical society is officially opposed to it.

As between the position of the extremists, who would stop vivisection entirely, and the scientific enthusiasts, who do not want any regulation whatever, the Davis-Lee bill appears to afford a middle ground upon which reasonable people of all views can meet, and a strong effort is being made to secure its passage at this session of the New York legislature.

GOOD ROADS ADVOCATES OPPOSE HIGH TARIFF.

Want Asphalt, Now Required to Protect Country Roads From Automobile Wear, Put Back on Free List.

Organizations and individuals working for the good roads cause are now centering their efforts against the attempt to secure a higher duty on asphalt. All the expert testimony laid before the subcommittee on tariff revision of the ways and means committee is in favor of returning crude asphalt to the free list and fixing the duty on refined asphalt in accordance with the difference in the cost of production in the United States as compared with the foreign product.

It is pointed out that a higher duty will amount simply to increased taxation for streets and roads, both on new construction and maintenance.

Outside of the cities the opposition to an increase in the tariff on asphalt is due to the fact that all the good roads experts are agreed that the only way in which a durable highway can be made that will withstand modern motor traffic is to use asphalt as a cementing material to hold together the surface of macadam roads. State and county authorities understand this fact thoroughly, as does the great organization of farmers known as the National Grange, which takes a very active interest in road matters.

A strong effort is being made to show congress that good as well as cheap roads are a far more important consideration than the protection of asphalt produced in the far west, which cannot possibly benefit states east of the Mississippi owing to the great cost of transportation across the continent.

NEW LINEN MILLS EARN DIVIDEND IN FIRST YEAR.

Quick Success of Industry Makes It Necessary to Extend Plant in Order to Meet Demand For First "Linen Made in America."

Breaking all records in New England-mill history, the Oxford Linen mills of North Brookfield, Mass., have in their first year of operation been placed on a profit making basis. After only eight months of operation under its new process of linen making the mill has established trade connections throughout the country so favorable that the surplus earnings make it possible to pay a dividend for the quarter ending March 31.

Business has so increased that the present mill capacity is not equal to the immediate demand, and plans have been made for extensive additions to the plant as soon as the weather permits building to begin. Extensive water rights have been acquired with a view to using electricity generated by water power.

The advantage enjoyed by the Oxford mills is that its combined chemical and mechanical processes accomplish in twelve hours what it takes European pensants and mill workers sixteen weeks to perform—that is, convert flax straw or tow into a perfect linen fiber ready for spinning.

So great an economy of time now makes it possible for America to compete with Great Britain, Belgium or France in the manufacture of fine linen in spite of cheap labor abroad. The enormous duty on imported linen is entirely avoided, to the additional advantage of linens made here.

CURRENT COMMENT

Taft's Anti-Cupid Break.

It is to be hoped that Judge Taft's attempt to "preach down the heart" of Uncle Sam's daughters is merely a lean "over backward" in order to stand up straight. Washington has sent out endless sermons urging all good Americans to "increase and multiply." No doubt the White House is indirectly responsible for these anti-bachelorhood crusades which bring malefactors under the spot light. Coming as an antithesis to much preaching up of matrimony, and all that, the president elect's advice to girls to cease thinking "that unless they are married their lives are not a success" is a note of sanity.

But the administration, whether coming or going, needn't worry. Population is still regulated "by the price of corn," and, while Cupid may smile the more over every anti-bachelor law married to the statutes, lack of smiles has not so far caused the little god's face to resemble a funeral procession. Sometimes, alas, the chilled heart is born with men and women. Some acquire the chilled heart, and some have it thrust upon them. In the present state of science nothing can be done about the first class. The second class may be rounded up by anti-bachelor and anti-spinster laws perhaps, and the existence of many of the third class would tend to show that there is room here right now for one more "society for the prevention of cruelty."

America's Young Pioneers.

The promoters of the George Junior Republics are hopeful that three new states—viz, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey—will be annexed to the so called nation during the current year. New York, California, Connecticut and Maryland may from this time on lay claim to having been the "original states" in the movement to make citizens out of wayward youngsters who want to throw off the yoke of bad habits. There is nothing in a name, but it would add picturesqueness to this new American revolution if there should be a federation formed by thirteen "colonies" and annexation of commonwealths from time to time results in a nation as broad as the republic which serves for the model.

It is pioneer work which these boys and girls of the George Junior colonies and republics engage in. They are striving for the future of the organization and also for the future of themselves as individuals. The workers in this movement have no native wilderness to conquer. But they do have to battle against their own ill starred fortunes—bad conditions and bad habits, for which they, as a rule, are not responsible. Born out of the pale or cast out by their own conduct, they must reclaim themselves. This is a warfare to build up individual character, and with character for capital the redeemed boy or girl may compete with the more fortunate youth of society. Here is a field where charity cannot pauperize. Charity may whitewash poverty and reputation, but it cannot whitewash character.

Probably not a tear was shed as course after course at the Chicago on-banquet disappeared save the one where everything on the bill of fare was served raw.

It might cut short disputes to let the conservation of our national resources committee have a say as to what happens to the constitution too.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Any man that has a mustache or whiskers it is his own fault, he cannot blame nature. Some men—but precious few—are improved with a bunch of hair on their face. Nearly every red haired person raises either a mustache or beard. Why is this thusly? All of this by way of preface for we would write of Ben Goodin, the butcher. Ben was one of those very few that improved on nature by raising a mustache. A dull ox blood, brick dust, faded color it was. Today he had it shaved off and talk about your "Pickings From Puck"! He looks like a man sent for and wont get there for a week. From a rear view, with his hat off, he looks like a robin read breast but taking a shy at him, face to face, is far better than hearing one of Bill Arnold's Gwynneville jokes. It is worth anyone's while to go in and buy some dog meat just to get a peek at Ben. Take the children around, too; they will enjoy it.

Mine Casualties Can and Should Be Reduced.

By Senator CHARLES DICK of Ohio.

THE coal mines of the United States are killing more than three times as many men per thousand employed as the mines of France and Belgium and two and a half times as many as are killed in Great Britain. IN ALL THE COAL PRODUCING COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD THE OUTPUT HAS INCREASED GREATLY IN THE LAST TEN YEARS, BUT THE UNITED STATES IS THE ONLY ONE IN WHICH THE NUMBER OF MEN KILLED FOR EACH THOUSAND EMPLOYED HAS ALSO INCREASED.

In every European country there has been a marked and steady DECREASE IN CASUALTIES. This has been due not alone to inspection and supervision by mining bureaus, but to the fact that these nations have maintained splendidly equipped testing stations, such as the federal government is installing in Pittsburgh.

Many practical coal miners of experience long refused to believe that coal dust is explosive. Twenty specimens gathered in Ohio mines were submitted recently to the United States testing station, and every one was ignited by the powder and exploded with terrific force. It is because of such experiments as this that MANY ACCIDENTS CAN AND WILL BE AVOIDED.

The function of the federal government in relation to mining is through THOROUGH SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATIONS similar to those which have proved effective in other mineral producing countries, to OBTAIN AND PUBLISH INFORMATION CONCERNING THE EXPLOSIVES USED IN THE MINES and the conditions under which they can be used safely in the presence of coal dust or gas and concerning other conditions which will make mining safer.

THERE IS NO OTHER COUNTRY IN THE WORLD IN WHICH NATURAL CONDITIONS ARE SO FAVORABLE FOR MINING COAL SAFELY AS IN THE UNITED STATES. THE DEATH RATE IN OUR MINES IS PERHAPS IN NO GREATER RATIO THAN ON THE RAILROADS AND IN OTHER INDUSTRIES, BUT WHAT WE SHOULD REALIZE IS THAT IT CAN AND SHOULD BE GREATLY REDUCED.

For Woman's Eye.

Lace and mousseline are seen frequently in coats for dinner gowns. Jewel girdles are being used to ornament the gown.

Although some of the late models are short, long coats continue the rage. Real gems are used for buttons on some of the fur coats.

For interlining coats, lamb's wool is being largely used. Arabian hoods are being attached to theater coats.

The three-button glove has been adopted generally, owing to sleeve lengths of the late modes.

New lines are being introduced to modify the loose-backed coat, which continues fashionable.

The decree has gone forth that the empire model is still the proper thing for a wedding gown.

French costumers give foremost place to feathery effects done in soutache.

Black is still popular for gowns and wraps, and even for hats.

Smart Tips For Men

The spring models are marked by shapeliness. Sack coats have the modified rather than the sharply defined waist with a slight flare over the hips.

The correct formal coat has a long, rolling collar reaching almost to the waist line, which gives the garment a very rich appearance.

In jewelry colors closely approaching the opal, bloodstone and moonstone are selling rapidly in a number of shops.

The vogue of matching the color of one part of the wearing apparel with that of another is growing stronger.

In the fall narrower trousers will come into vogue once again.

Black and gray overcoats will retain their popularity.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE.

(Richmond Item.)

Two card sharks with a "cold" deck operated on the eastbound T. H. I. & E. traction car, Wednesday, and "cleaned" a traveling salesman by the name of Moore out of $150 in cold cash. The touching operation was performed between Dunreith and Cambridge City, where Conductor Evans in charge of the traction car became wise to the sharpers' game and ejected them from the car.

The game was a familiar one. It started with a friendly three handed game of "seven-up." Suddenly one of the sharpers secured a good poker hand and a better deal in the great American game was handed to Moore. The other sharper suggested a poker game and "seven-up" was immediately banished. The traveling salesman won the first stakes in the poker game. However, his luck vanished, when the decks were switched and his wad was cleaned. The victim was a game loser and registered no protest, realizing that he had lost at another's game.

NEW FISH TAIL PROPELLER.

Test Promises Great Possibilities of Latest Marine Device.

Driven by a propelling device which its inventor adapted from the structure and propulsion operation of a fish's tail, the thirteen foot model of a battleship raced through the water of a big tank in a test on top of a Broadway (New York) building recently. The novel jointed propeller, working between twin keels, sent the little boat along with such power that it traversed the ninety-one feet between its bow and the end of the tank in eight seconds. This is at the rate of eight miles an hour.

Most interesting of the prowess displayed by the fish tail propeller was its ability to stop the vessel quickly and gather sternway. In this it far outstripped, the experts present said, anything now possible with screw propellers.

Joseph Turner and Henry Riviere, the inventors, assert that their fish tail propeller will produce a speed at present unequalled.

To Make Church Sound Proof.

The Bedford Presbyterian congregation of Brooklyn, to which the Rev. S. Edward Young of Pittsburgh was recently brought after considerable trouble, is going to have a sound proof edifice to worship in, no matter what it costs. This fact was announced from the pulpit, and Dr. Young said an architect had been found who has guaranteed to make the church acoustics so perfect that not a flat wheeled trolley car or the heaviest wagon rumble can be heard by the worshippers.

PATRIOTISM TEACHING PLAN.

National Red Cross Arranges Special Sunday School Membership Scheme.

A movement which is likely to have far-reaching results in the teaching of patriotism in the Sunday school has recently been launched through publications of the Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Universalist and other denominations. Through the efforts of Charles A. Brand, editor of the Pilgrim Teacher of Boston, the American National Red Cross has made a special membership arrangement for the benefit of all scholars in the Sunday school. The membership fee has heretofore been $1 a year, which put it out of the reach of most of the members of the Sunday schools, and yet the children are the very ones who should be learning to take an interest in this great humanitarian and patriotic work. By the new arrangement the American National Red Cross will enroll Sunday school classes as classes on the payment of $1, and the Red Cross membership button and the publications of the Red Cross will be sent to the president or secretary of the class or the persons designated to take charge of them for the class.

CAPACITY FOR WIT AND SATIRE

Has Champ Clark, Democratic Leader in the House of Representatives.

WILL CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Will Have Reached the Age of Fifty-Nine Years Tomorrow.

Washington, March 6.—Champ Clark, of Pike county, Mo., Democratic leader in the house of representatives, and one of the few men who are making the history of the times in America, will tomorrow receive the congratulations of his congressional colleagues and Missouri friends upon attaining his 59th birthday. The Missouri statesman, who is now, next to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, the leading figure in the House, was born in Anderson county, Ky., on March 7, 1850, and was originally christened James Beauchamp Clark. The "James" he lost early in life, and the "Beauchamp" was shortened to "Champ" by his Pike county associates. The future Solon accepted this trifling with his name a spirit of pious resignation, and ever since he has signed all official papers as plain "Champ Clark."

Although some of the Solons of the effete East are inclined to sneer at a man who comes from Pike county, and doesn't care who knows it, they don't do any of their sneering while Champ is around. In the first place, the Missourian is more than six feet high, that counts for something. In the second place, he is admittedly one of the most learned men in congress, and able, by his erudition, to make most of the other members look like "small potatoes." Thirdly, he has a cutting wit and a capacity for satire that isn't relished in the east by those at whom his remarks are pointed.

Yet, after all, in spite of his merits, there is little chance for Champ Clark to accomplish anything wonderful as Democratic leader. To be minority chief of the House is a respectable and even an honorable job, but it doesn't get much in the congressional market. A long, lean, lank man from Illinois attends to that.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak," the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

CHAPTER XII. TANGLED SKIN.

WHEN Burrell entered he wasted no time in greetings. "I know why you sent for me, Poleon. I've heard the news, and I would have been up any how to congratulate her very soon. I call it pretty fine."

"Yes, dere's been beeg strike all right, an' Necia is goin' be riche gal."

"Um as pleased as if the claim were mine, and you feel the same way, of course."

"You know me for good man, eh? An' you know I ain't try for brek up oder fellers' busnes, never! Waal, I'm some to you now lak wan good man to 'noder, because I'm got bad trouble on de min', an' you musn't get sore."

"There's no danger, Poleon. Let's have it. If there is anything I can do you may count on me."

"Waal," he began nervously, clearing his throat, "it's lak dis. Dere's feller

"I'm tired of the game, and you interest me no longer."

"Been talk some 'bout Necia, an' it ain't nice talk neider."

"Who is he?" exclaimed the soldier in a tone that made the girl's heart leap.

"Waal! Lemme tol' you w'at he say: den we'll talk 'bout fecx 'im plainece. He say dere's joke down on Stark's saloon dat Necia Gale is mak' fool of herse'f on you an' dat you ain't care for marry her."

"Runion!" cried Burrell and started for the door. "I'll settle with him now for fair!" But Poleon blocked his way and, observing him gravely, continued in a tone that the other could not disregard nor mistake:

"No, m'sieu. Before you pass on dat place you'll tol' me if it's true."

"True!" the lieutenant retorted angrily. "What business is it of yours? This concerns me."

"An' me too! I'm w'at you call garden for Necia till John Gale come back, an' I'm broder of her too. You promis' jus' now you don't get mad, an' I don't say she's Runion neider w'at spik dose t'ing. Dere's more dan 'im been talkin'. Is it true?"

His sternness offended Burrell, for the soldier was not the kind to discuss his affairs in this way; therefore he drew back, scowling.

"Poleon Doret," he said, "it's not one's enemies who do him injury; it's his d—d fool friends. I have learned to regard you highly, because you are a brave man and an honest one, but it seems that you are a sentimental idiot."

"Dem is tough word," Doret replied. "But dere's reason w'y I can't tak' on no madness. You say I'm honest, Waal, I'm honest now, an' I come to you wit' fair words, an' I show my han' to you—I don't hol' out no cards, m'sieu—but I don't tink it is you who have play square altogether. I'm Necia's frien', an' I'll fight for her jus' so quecker lak you, but I mus' know dis t'ing for sure, so if you have de good heart an' de courage of good man you'll tell me de truth. Do you have the feelin' for marry on her?"

The pause that followed was awkward for both of them, while the girl, who stood concealed near by, held her breath and buried her nails in her palms. Why did he hesitate? Would he never speak?

"I am amazed at myself for listening to you," he said at last, "and quite shocked, in fact, at my answering your questions, but perhaps I'd better, after all. First, however, let me say that the little girl is just as pure now as she was before she knew me."

Poleon threw up his hand. "M'sieu, dat's more closer to de insult dan w'at you call me jus' now. You don't need for spoke it."

"You're right. There's no need to tell you that. As for showing her certain attentions—well, I admit that I have, as you know; but, thank God, I can say I've been a gentleman and addressed her as I would the fairest lady I've known."

"An' you mean for marry, eh?" probed the other.

"I did not say so," Burrell declared at last. "It's a thing I can't discuss, because I doubt if you could understand what I would say. This life of yours is different from mine, and it would be useless for me to explain the reason why I cannot marry her. Leaving out all question of my sentiment, there are insurmountable obstacles to such a union. But, as to this talk, I think that can be stopped without annoyance to her, and, as for the rest, we must trust to time to bring about a proper adjustment."

A low, discordant sound of laughter arrested his words, and, turning, he beheld Necia standing revealed in the dimness.

"What an amusing person you are!" she said. "I've had hard work holding in all this time while you were torturing your mind and twisting the honest English language out of shape and meaning. I knew I should have to laugh sooner or later. That's your Dixie chivalry, I suppose. Well, I've played with you long enough, Lieutenant Burrell. I'm tired of the game, and you interest me no longer."

"You—you—say you've been playing with me!" stammered the man. The bottom of things seemed suddenly to slide from under him. He was like one sinking in some hideous quagmire. He felt as if he were choking.

"Why, of course," she cried scornfully, "just as you took me up for amusement. You were such a fine, well dressed, immaculate mound of conceit that I couldn't resist the temptation, and you hid your condescension so poorly that I thought you ought to be taken down a peg. I knew I was a squaw, but I wanted to see if I were not like other women, after all, and if you were not like other men."

She was talking rapidly now, almost shrilly, for she had never attempted to act before, while he stood dazed and speechless, fumbling at his throat while she railed at him. "You needn't waste time debating whether I'm good enough for you, because I'm not—decidedly I'm not your kind, and you are a joke to me."

He uttered an inarticulate cry, but she ran on unheeding, her eyes wide and glowing like coals, her lips chalk white. "You see, it's time I stopped such foolishness anyhow, for I'm to be married on Sunday."

"You are going to be married?" he muttered laboriously.

"Yes, to Poleon. Why, that's been understood for years."

He whirled upon the Canadian in a fury, and his words came hot and tumbling.

"D-don't blame him!" cried the girl hysterically. "It is all my doing. He had no part in it."

"Yes," said Doret in a restrained voice, "dis ain' no work of mine."

"You're a liar!" breathed the Kentuckian, now fairly wild with anger, but the other looked him squarely between the eyes and made no move.

"M'sieu," he cried, "I'm livin' forty year an' never took no nam' lak dat before, but dere's reason here w'y I can't mak' no asswer."

"Why, you aren't really angry, Lieutenant?" mocked Necia. "It's only the joke of an ignorant half breed girl whose sense of humor is all out of gear. You musn't quarrel over a squaw!"

She taunted him like a baited badger, for this thing was getting beyond her control, and the savage instincts of the wilderness were uppermost.

"You are quite right," he replied. "I am very foolish, and the laugh is with you." His lips tried to frame a smile, but failed. He bowed low and, turning, walked out.

The moment he was gone she cried breathlessly:

"You must marry me, Poleon. You've got to do it now!"

"Do you mean dat for sure?" he said. "Can't you see there's nothing else for it after this? I'll show him that he can't make me a toy to suit his convenience. I've told him I would marry you on Sunday, and I'll do it or die. Of course you don't love me, for you don't know what love is, I suppose. How—could you?"

She broke down and began to sob, though she tried to keep her face straight, though they left her eyes dry and feverish. "I—I'm very unhappy, b-but I'll be a good—wife to you. Oh, Poleon, if you only knew!"

He drew a long breath. When he spoke his voice had the timbre of some softly played instrument, and a tremor ran through his words.

"No! I don't know w'at kin' of love is dis, for sure. De kin' of love I know, is de kin' I sing 'bout in my songs. I s'pose it's different breed to yours, an' I'm begin to see it don't live nowhere but on dem songs of mine. Dere's long tam' I waste here now—five year—but tomorrow I go again lookin' for my own countree."

"Five year I've wait—an' jus' for dis."

"Poleon," she cried, looking up with startled eyes, "not tomorrow, but Sunday! We will go together."

He shook his head. "Tomorrow, Necia! An' I go alone."

"Then you won't marry me?" she asked in a hushed and frightened voice. "No! Dere's wan t'ing I can't do even for you, Necia; dere's wan t'ing I can't geeve, dat's all—jus' wan on all de worl'. I can't kill de H't god wit' de bow an' arrier. He's all dat mak' de sun shine, de birds sing an' de leaves w'isper to me; he's de wan H't feller w'at mak' my life wort' livin' an' keep music in my soul. If I keel 'im dere ain' no more lef' lak it, an' I'm never goin' fin' my lau' of content nor sing nor laugh no more. I'm tinkin' I would rader sing songs to 'im all alone onderneut' de stars beside my campfire an' talk wit' 'im in my bark canoe dan go livin' wit' you in fine house an' let 'im get col' an' die."

"But I told him I'd marry you—that I had always intended to. He'll believe I was lying," she moaned in distress.

IN MEMORIAM.

1854-1909.

Let us not think of death as the ending of life, let us think of it as the beginning of the life beautiful. A victory over death and the grave.

Daniel Neukam, son of John and Anna Margaret Neukam was born in Hamilton county, April 26, 1854, passed into the life beyond February 27, 1909 at the age of 54 years, 10 months and 1 day.

On December 11th 1877 he was united in marriage to Matilda Senefeld of Brookville. To this union was born 7 children, two dying in infancy. Those remaining to mourn the loss of kind and loving parents are Mrs. Mary Krammes of Swazee, Md., Mrs. Lizzie Wilson of Raleigh, Christena Neukam, Mrs. Catherine Johnson and John Neukam.

There are five grand children, two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Baker who lives near Brookville and Mrs. Lizzie Mineran of Hamilton, Ohio. Four brothers, Henry and John who are twins living near Brookville, Fred who lives at Connersville and Frank whose home is at Mays Station.

When a young man of 19 years of age, he gave his heart to God, becoming a member of the German Lutheran church.

About seven years ago he purchased the farm that has been a pleasant home.

On April 27th 1908, his wife, Matilda Senefeld Neukam was called home to be with Jesus. She was a noble woman, well loved by her family and friends and her memory is held sacred in the hearts of her children.

Mr. Neukam was a wealthy farmer and a man of sterling qualities. A good friend and neighbor, he held the respect of all who knew him. He was a charter member of the Improved Order of Red Men of Glenwood.

Dear bereaved ones, will say though your loved ones are gone, they are still yours in the best sense of possession. Look not on the dark side, the bond of love between you will grow stronger and will reach to heaven. Think of the grand reunion that took place in heaven when father was called home.

Two Important Factors Tend to This Condition of Things.

New York, March 6.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Weather irregularities and tariff and price revision uncertainties combine to make for a rather quiet tone in trade and industry, pending clearer views of these and winter wheat crop possibilities. ## Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a smothering poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

GUN FOR ROOSEVELT

English Hunters to Give President Handsome Rifle.

DANGERS OF AFRICAN TRIP.

Rhinoceroses, Elephants, Giraffes and Snakes Not to Be Trifled With, Says Earl of Warwick—Need of Self Control in Hunting Elephants.

Prominent hunters in England are planning to present to President Roosevelt a handsome sporting rifle for use on his African trip, according to the Earl of Warwick, a sportsman of wide note. The earl, at the president's invitation, recently looked over the armory Mr. Roosevelt had gathered. At a Washington hotel the next day he told of some of the experiences the president must expect and the weapons he would need in pursuing the various kinds of game.

"As soon as we heard that your president was going to Africa," said the earl to a Washington correspondent of the New York Times, "several of us in England who are interested in sport began planning to see if we couldn't make things easier for him on his trip. North Baxton, the famous hunter Selous and myself have already been in communication on the subject. As for the president's armament, that is amply sufficient for his needs, and the American guns are as good as any, but as a token of their esteem for the hunter president the Englishmen want him to carry an English piece with him."

The earl said that the popular conception of the president's proposed expedition as one entailing considerable personal risk was unfounded. The dangers that will be encountered, he said, would be for the most part from unexpected sources. His own experience had exploded the old belief that the lion was the animal most to be feared in the African jungles.

"The rhinoceros," explained the English sportsman, "is the most dangerous animal the president is likely to come in contact with. This beast's eyes are so small that he is not quick in locating the hunters, but his sense of smell makes up for this, and more. The animal is always dangerous when attacked. I have actually known it when unmolested to follow up the trail of a hunting party and make a headlong charge among the men."

"Ordinarily an elephant is not particularly ferocious, but the fact that it wanders generally in herds makes the sport of bagging one very exciting. Then, too, when an elephant is wounded he has to be killed speedily or the killing will go to the credit of the elephant."

One of the greatest dangers of the trip, according to the earl, arises from the number of snakes everywhere in the jungle. But this phase of hunting in Africa, he said, is no worse than it is in the river swamps and bayous of Florida. Contrary to all general information, the apparently gentle and beautiful giraffe is as pugnacious an animal as can be found.

The president will not need an elaborate array of weapons, in the opinion of the Englishman. A long range rifle for the more timid animals that are found on the open stretches of country, a small rifle for ostriches and small antelope, fowling pieces and a heavy rifle for big game at close quarters will about fill the bill.

The heaviest piece in the armory of the president takes a .405 cartridge, carries five shots and is capable of boring through any anatomy in the African hunting grounds. This is the most powerful repeating rifle ever put on the market. For long range work the president has obtained an 1894 model, chambered for a thirty groove rimless cartridge. A rifle of the 1896 model, extra light, with a 45.70 caliber for big game at short range, has been obtained.

As the laws protecting the larger kinds of game are very strict, the earl is of the opinion that the president will probably get most of his excitement from shooting the so called "pests"—lions, tigers and leopards—which are not protected. Leopards are most numerous, he said, and as they are very courageous he expects the president to make a point of hunting them.

The law protecting elephants is the one that will test the president's self control to the utmost. He will be allowed to kill two, and as the chances are that the first ones he comes across will not be of the finest grade and almost worthless as specimens he will have to restrain his eagerness until one of the right proportions is "jumped."

According to the earl, the president will be agreeably surprised at the climate. After he reaches an elevation of 4,000 feet he will find the nights cold and the days comfortable.

There is the greatest abundance of small game for the table, said the earl, and the natives in the part of Africa to be visited by the president are friendly and accustomed to acting as guides and porters to white explorers.

FURTHER TIME GIVEN SENATE

Governor Saves Face of Indiana Law Makers.

COULDN'T FINISH SUPPLY BILL

By Extending Until 6 O'Clock Tonight the Time For Receiving Bills, Governor Marshall Enables Hoosier Legislators to Complete the Big Appropriation Measure Which Had Stacked Up on Their Hands—At the Same Time the Executive Again Demanded Rigid Economy.

Indianapolis, March 6.—No bills will be received by Governor Marshall that are received after 6 o'clock tonight. Senator Yarling, Democrat, called on Governor Marshall yesterday and asked him if he would receive bills until tonight at 6 if the senate would make a request of that kind. The governor had stated that all measures, including the general appropriations bill, must reach him by 12 last night. If he had not changed front a large number of bills would have been left over for lack of time in which to consider them, and it is doubtful whether the appropriations bill could have been finished.

Governor Extends Time.

A motion was introduced by Senator Yarling calling on the senate to request Governor Marshall to receive bills as late as 6 o'clock tonight. This was adopted. The governor sent word that he would honor the senate's request. The senate passed a motion thanking the governor for receding from his position. The house also requested the governor for more time and then went to work with a will to push through many measures.

Before the senate had a chance to consider the general appropriations measure Governor Marshall sent another sharp message to the house, warning the legislature of the condition of the state's finances and calling their attention to the amount carried in the general appropriations bill. He said he believed it unsafe to pass the bill in its original form without cutting it down at least $700,000. The general appropriations bill was completed today.

Numerous Measures Approved.

Governor Marshall reported to the senate his approval of twenty-one senate bills, among which were two of especial interest to Indianapolis. These were Senator Clark's bills, providing for the mileage of officers returning fugitives, and the bill making highway robbery punishable by imprisonment for from ten to twenty years.

The Beal bill, providing for better safety appliances on switch engines, such as lights, stepping-boards, etc., was another of the bills signed, and the Kistler bill, providing that taxes of all kinds shall be a lien, continuing for ten years, on real estate of the delinquent taxpayer. The McCullough bill providing for the preservation of all election ballots for sixty days after the election, to be used in cases of contests, was also signed.

Construes Doubt in Favor of Solons.

In explaining his attitude on senate bill No. 54, conferring the right to become notaries public upon the members of the general assembly, the governor said he had had grave doubts as to the possibility of such a thing under the constitution, but that he would construe the doubt in favor of the members of the assembly, because of the saving that would result in the future when it is necessary to call special session of the legislature.

In the past many lawyer members of the assembly, because it has been impossible to hold a membership and a notary commission, have resigned immediately after the regular sessions of the assembly, in order to avail themselves of the conveniences of notarial commissions. They did this on the theory that the regular sessions ended their business with the state so far as actual service was concerned. In such cases, however, it has always been necessary, at great expense to the people of the districts represented by such members, to hold special elections to fill their places.

Put Them Up to Senate.

The house put up to the senate the question of whether or not the sheriffs' in-and-out fee law and the clerks' "fee grab" law shall stand. Both bills were passed by the house, rushed through the hands of the enrolling clerks and hurried to the senate in time, the house members judged, for the senate to act.

The bills passed were introduced by Representative McGinnis. The first, repealing the law giving the sheriffs the in-and-out fees, was passed by a vote of 63 to 17. The second repeals the clerks' fee grab measure and was passed by a vote of 59 to 25.

The passage of the bills was marked by a lot of debate along party lines. The Democrats had arranged matters so that the bills could be rushed to enrollment in time for senate action, and went into the fight in earnest. The Republicans evidently judged that the passage of the bills would be useless, as far as any repeal of the two laws is concerned, and in a number of instances voted for the bills after saying openly that they did so purely as a compliment.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, March 6.—When the general appropriations bill was taken up in the senate representatives of the state institutions and various departments were on hand insisting on the larger allowances being made. A warning that Governor Marshall issued to the legislature that the appropriations must be reduced or the taxes raised, created a big stir among the assemblymen, representatives of the various institutions and state departments. The party leaders on both sides were upset, as they didn't know what the effect of the governor's attitude would be on the people. The governor had taken a stand for a reduction of expenditures, and he intended to maintain his position, it was declared, even if he had to veto the appropriations bill and call a special session of the legislature to enact one that will not exceed the revenues. Institutional superintendents who are here were very indignant over the governor's attitude, although, as a matter of course, they did not express themselves publicly. When the governor went over the appropriations bill as passed by the house he found that it carried an amount in excess of the revenues the state will have during the next two years. His warning that the revenues would be exceeded about $700,000 was not taken very seriously by the Republicans until they obtained a few figures from Auditor Billheimer. Even then some of the senate Republicans asserted that the governor doesn't know enough about the state's finances to take the position he has. Senator Bland, chairman of the senate finance committee, declared on the floor that someone is bluffing about the appropriations bill and that there is a "nigger in the woodpile" somewhere. John Reed, deputy state auditor, who is an expert on the state's financial condition, said last night that Governor Marshall did know what he was talking about. Reed is a Republican leader. "I furnished the governor with the figures he used," said Reed. "I went over the appropriations bill as it was introduced. It provided for expenditure of more money than the state will have. The house increased the total. The state's revenues for the next two years will be $1,160,000. If the senate adopts the house appropriations bill the deficit in two years will exceed $700,000. The legislature has passed several other bills carrying appropriations exceeding $150,000. Reed said that in addition to the amount carried in the appropriations bill, provision had to be made for the per capita fund for the new insane hospital for Madison and for additional maintenance at the other hospitals for insane. Senator Hanna, chairman of the legislative visitation committee, which reported the needs of all institutions and departments to the legislature, said that the bill, as it came from the house, carried a much larger total than his committee recommended. The senate yesterday afternoon raised the total $280,000 and raised many other items last night. Several Republican senators declared that they proposed to make appropriations needed by various institutions and departments and force Governor Marshall to take the responsibility of calling an extra session, if he wanted to go that limit. It was said that in such a contingency Governor Marshall would not call an extra session before next summer, and in the meantime he would take the stump and explain to the people why he demanded a reduction of expenditures.

Before the senate took up the appropriations bill it passed a measure introduced on behalf of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen providing that all passenger and freight trains shall be equipped with emergency medical supplies. A bill requiring that all locomotives shall be equipped with automatic ashpans was passed. Representative Wells's bill providing for a merger of independent telephone companies; Representative Hewig's bill permitting councils to increase salary of county treasurer and auditor for doing city work; Representative Maish's bill increasing the appropriation for Purdue agricultural experiment station from $25,000 to $75,000 a year, were passed. The house passed Representative McGinnis's bills repealing the laws giving sheriffs in-and-out fees and clerks transcript fees. An effort is being made to pass the same bills under suspension of the rules in the senate today. They were vetoed by Governor Hanly after the legislature adjourned two years ago, and then passed over his head by the present assembly. The house passed Representative Behmer's inheritance tax bill, but it was not considered by the senate.

Joseph B. Kealing, United States attorney for the district of Indiana, has resigned.

MORE COUNTIES GO DRY

The Indiana Prohibition Procession Growing Right Along.

Indianapolis, March 6.—Whitley and Hancock counties voted dry Friday, each by a majority exceeding 1,200. There was a lively contest in Greencastle, county seat of Hancock, and Columbia City, county seat of Whitley. Columbia City is the home of Governor Marshall. There is a small brewery and thirteen saloons at Columbia City. There are eleven saloons in Hancock, but practically every township in the county had been made dry by remonstrance.

DAMAGE DONE BY SAN JOSE SCALE

Many Orchards and Shade Trees
Are Suffering From a Pest
That Works Havoc.

USING GOVERNMENT FORMULA

To Combat the Scale and in Many Instances it is Proving Most Effective.

The orchards and shade trees of Rush county are threatened with total destruction from the ravages of the San Jose scale and other pests that prey upon trees. The San Jose scale especially has become very numerous and destructive and farmers and others of the county are somewhat at a loss how to combat them.

The only effective method of combatting the scale seems to be that of spraying the infected trees, yet the most effective preparation with which to spray them remains a very perplexing question. Many fruit growers of the county, however, are taking advantage of the information furnished free by the Agricultural Department of the government. The Department of Agriculture sends out bulletins in which is much valuable information to farmers, which they can have for the asking, and recent bulletins have contained formulas for the preparation of remedies to be sprayed on trees infested with the San Jose scale and other pests, and many of the farmers of Rush county and tree owners of Rushville are using the government formulas much to their advantages.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Every family should have a curfew which should "ring tonight" and all other nights if needed. These curfews are inexpensive and can be made at home. Take a piece of siding two feet long and whittle one end to a handle. Take the child that needs the curfew and bend it over a barrel. Now take the siding and use it as a clapper. Put it on hot, dividing the strokes evenly, and see that none miss. Good for a girl or a boy up to 18, and three applications are warranted to cure the most pronounced case of street loafing that exists. The music is said to be more effective than singing.
